

Rossi d'Angera

Bitter

Our very traditional infusion in hydroalcoholic solution of medicinal herbs and roots. The perfect ingredient to create refreshing and original cocktails.

Bitters were born as medicines and evolved into alcoholic drinks in the middle of 19th century. They can be drunk on their own or in a cocktail. The Rossi d'Angera Bitter is fresh on the palate.

Tasting Notes

Color: Ruby red.

Bouquet: Intense herbal notes, spices, and citrus.

Taste: Classic aperitif liqueur. Spicy, fruity, herbs, and citrus and pleasantly bitter notes.

Serving suggestion: Try it neat, on the rocks with a slice of orange, or as a mixer.

Alcohol: 25%

Rossi d'Angera is an historic distillery founded in 1847. This family business is in Angera, on the shores of Lake Maggiore, where the region Lombardia abuts Piemonte, just south of the Swiss Alps. During their 175 years of history, five generations, beginning with founder Bernardo Rossi, have carried on this family tradition with passion and desire to spread the Italian culture.

Through two world wars and modern innovations, the business has been a family endeavor. From the original steam distilleries to the modern-day international marketing and distribution, they have been constant through it all. Whenever you are mixing cocktails and creating Italian-style, quality-time with family, friends or customers – Rossi d'Angera will help you deliver authentic Italian flavors.