I Cacciagalli
Falanghina "Aorivola"

BIOLOGICO

Overview

- Aorivola is single-vineyard Falanghina from the village of the same name, on the volcanic slopes of Roccamonfina. Biodynamically farmed, twelve hours on the skins, fermented with native yeasts in concrete, unfined and unfiltered. Lemon, white flowers, wet stone and a salty, smoky finish. Serve cold, with shellfish.

Appellation: Roccamonfina IGT
Type: Red, dry
Varietal: 100% Falanghina

Shellfish, crudo, lighter fish dishes, fried zucchini flowers, mozzarella di bufala, lemony pasta with clams.

I Cacciagalli is a small biodynamic estate in Teano, in northern Campania's Alto Casertano, set on the slopes of the extinct Roccamonfina volcano. The land has belonged to Diana Iannaccone's family for generations; today she, an agronomist, and her husband Mario Basco farm about nine hectares of native grapes only: Aglianico, Piedirosso, Pallagrello Nero, Falanghina and Fiano. Their volcanic soils are rich in minerals. In the cellar, some sixty terracotta amphorae do most of the work, hosting spontaneous fermentations and long skin macerations. Nothing is fined or filtered, so every wine tastes of this place.
